SENTENCE OF DEATH COMMUTED BY KING

Reprieve Granted to Anarchist at Barcelona, and that he had no right Who Attempted to Kill Alfonso.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY. K ING ALFONSO has just commuted to imprisonment, the sentence of death passed some time ago upon the anarchist. Sancho Allegre, who several months ago attempted to assassinate him in Madrid, while on his way back to the palace from inspecting troops that had just returned from the seat of war in Morocco. It may be remembered that Alfonso escaped solely and entirely the regicide's shot by riding his horse direct at his assaliant; in one word, by riding him down, instead of endeavoring to dodge him or to take to flight. The assassin's two shots went wild, one grazing the horse and the other the King's shake, and before the would-be murderer could recover his footing from beneath the horse's feet he had been seized by the officers of the King's escort and by the police. After that the King rode back to the palace, escorted by an enthusiastic crowd, cheering and applauding him. Attacks of this kind upon the chief of the state are punishable in Spain, as in other monarchical countries, and even in republics such as the United States and France, by death, and it is but rarely that the sentence is commuted. Don Alfonso, although so young—he is but lenburg of the Synod of North Caro- twenty-seven years of age-has been lenburg of the Synod of North Carolina.

A large number of girls are being educated here who are financially unable to attend many other schools, and the demand from students for admittance is far greater than can be met, due to the lack of dormitory room. The management of the school has been forced already to secure rooms in several private homes in order to accommodate a number of students, the dornitories being too much crowded to admit them.

The speaker at the opening exercises of this session was Rev. Charles L. Zorbaugh, D. D., of Cleveland, O., who is superintendent of church extension of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America.

So great is the need for additional buildings and other material improvements in connection with this school the president has begun a campaign for the securing of funds for this purpose, and he hopes to raise $125,000 within the next twelve months.

Altonso, although so younge—he is but twenty-seven years of age—has been the wubjected to numerous attempts upon his life, the two most serious having been the one in Paris, when he was driving back to the Quai d'Orsay with President Loubet from the opera, and the other on his wedding day, when the carriage in which he was returning to the palace with the Queen after the ceremony was shattered by a bomb, numerous people killed and wounded, his consort and himself escaping from all harm by a miracle, although the hem of her bridal robe was drenched with the blood of the dead and dying.

Alfonso has every reason, therefore, to feel embittered against the anarchist, and his reprieving Sancho Allegre must be regarded as an act of generosity thoroughly in keeping with his character, and relatively rare. He was anying the anarchist leader, Ferrer, wards the anarchist leader, Ferrer, must be regarded as an act of generosity thoroughly in keeping with his character, and relatively rare. He was anxious to extend similar elemency towards the anarchist leader, Ferrer, who, after being concerned in the bomb outrage on the occasion of the royal marriage, and afterwards reroyal marriage, and afterwards re-leased at the instance of the young monarch, was some years later arrested as leader of the anarchist rising at Barcelona, which resulted in the de-struction of an immense amount of life to interfere with the course of justice. They not only declined to give their approval to the pardon, which was constitutionally necessary in order to render it valid, but they even placed their resignation in his hands, and de clared that they would decline to re-main in office if he persisted in sparing Ferrer. A Cabinet crisis at that juncture would have been disastrous, not alone to the dynasty, but also to the nation, and so King Alfonso was forced_much to his distress, to yield to his ministers, and to allow Ferrer to be put to death.

Whatever the ultimate decision with regard to the revived scheme for the construction of a tunnel across the English Channel from Calais to Dover, one thing at least is certain, namely, that the train ferry, which has been suggested as an alternative plan, will never materialize.

It is perfectly true that ferries convey trains from Germany to Sweden, and from the latter country to Den-mark. But the Baltic Sea and its affluents are practically tideless. In the narrow Straits of Dover the tides of the North Sea and of the English Channel meet, with the necessary re-sult that when each current reaches the top of the flow there is a disturb-ance, even in the absence of any wind A train ferry service from Dover to Calais would be only practicable if rendered absolutely dependent upon the condition of the tides, which is, of course, out of the question.

When the tides are on the slant, that is, when the waters which have met in collision are falling away to their respective areas, a comfortable and smooth passage may be obtained. I commend this hint to all of my readers who may happen to travel across from Dover to Calais, if they are to avoid mal de mer. Let them consult/ the conditions of the tide and then make their arrangements in accordance therewith, on the lines which I have just indicated.

Prince Boris Galitzin, whose fame as a seismologist has extended to this side of the Atlantic, and who was over here for some weeks a couple of years ago, has just been appointed di-rector of the Imperial Observatory of St. Petersburg, in succession to Dr Oscar Elacklund. Member of the Imperial Academy of Sciences of St. Petersburg, and of all sorts of foreign astronomical and scientific societies, he belongs to a family that has played a notable role in the history of his country. In fact, the Galitzins might had they willed, be occupying to-day the throne of Russia. For Prince Basil Galitzin was one of the four candidates for the Muscovite crown in 1610, but, like the Troubetzkoi of his day, voluntarily gave way in favor of Michael Romanoff, from whom the present Czar is descended.

The Galitzins are descended from Guediminus, Grand Prince of Lithuania, who flourished in the fourteenth century, and derive their name from "Ga-litza"—a gauntlet—which the immediate ancestor of the family, namely, Michael Boulgakoff, was accustomed to always wear on his right hand, never being seen without it. It is to Wasili Galitzin that Russia really owes the conquest of the Crimea; to Michael Galitzin the acquisition of Finland, and to Demetrius Galitzin the possession of Livland. Another Demetrius Galit-zin was the intimate friend and patron in Russia of Voltaire.

Remarkable Christmas Present

Among the curious Christmas presents of this year will be one for a man of national reputation, which has been all year in the making.

Way last January the present was decided upon, and a friend of the prominent gentleman requested the Burrellic Press Clipping Bureau, of New York, to watch every paper in America and to take up every item hich appeared concerning the man.

The clipping bureau people followed instructions, and now present the history, of one year in the life of this espécial man.

The History ends just after election, and the 30,642 newspaper items found include everything, from a three-line editorial mention to full-page illustrated stories. These have been mounted on 3,200 great sheets of Irish linen paper and bound into three massive volumes.

At the head of each item is the news

ed on 3,200 great sheets of Irish linen paper and bound into three massive volumes.

At the head of each item is the name and clate of paper clipped from, this information having been put in with a book typewriter. The words thus inserted amount to 158,252.

In actual time, a very strict record of which has been kept, the work has required sixty-four working days throughout the year, and has kept in employment during that time thirty people as readers, clippers, sorters, mounters and binders. Every newspaper of importance is represented.

This is merely a specimen of some of the unique orders which get into the Burrelle Bureau, for the extent to which clippings are used by individuals and by business concerns seems to be remarkable.

There are many people in private as well as in public life who need press clippings and don't know it. It might be well for them to look up this man Burrelle, who is said to be so well known that a letter simply addressed "Burrelle, New York," will reach him with no delay. (Advertisement.)
